

TECH SGT. TREVOR GRISWOLD

Noncommissioned officer in charge

Tech. Sgt. Trevor Griswold is the F-16 Viper Demonstration Team noncommissioned officer in charge.

As the NCOIC, he helps lead the nine-member F-16 Viper Demonstration Team and oversees maintenance actions performed on the F-16 Viper.

He represents Air Combat Command, the United States Air Force and the Department of Defense at more than 20 air shows annually. His mission is to ensure the demonstration team has a quality aircraft available to perform a safe demonstration, allowing millions of spectators to see the F-16's air superiority.

Griswold was born in Martinsville, Indiana, and graduated from Martinsville High School in May 2010. He enlisted in the United States Air Force in November 2010.

Griswold has held various positions at multiple bases throughout his career. His latest assignment brings him to the F-16 Viper Demonstration Team as the NCOIC. He deployed in support of Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Inherent Resolve.

Outside of work, Griswold enjoys playing basketball and slow-pitch softball, spending time with his wife and two children, and tinkering with vehicles. He also enjoys collecting vintage video game systems.
