

STAFF SGT. AUSTIN DENNY

Integrated Avionics Specialist

Staff Sergeant Austin Denny is an Integrated Avionics craftsman for the F-16 Viper Demonstration Team.

As an avionics specialist, he is responsible for ensuring the aircraft's communication, navigation, RADAR, and electronic warfare systems are operational.

He represents Air Combat Command, the United States Air Force and the Department of Defense at more than 20 airshows annually.

His mission is to ensure the demonstration pilot has a safe aircraft to perform an aerial demonstration for millions of spectators.

Staff Sergeant Austin Denny enlisted into the Air Force in April 2018. He is from Mt. Vernon, Kentucky and enjoys hunting and watching sports.
